CARDINAL DISCUSSES POLITICS

Declares He Has No Fear, No Matter if Bryan or Taft Is Elected to Presidency-Thinks United States Is More Moral Than Europe-Accompanied by Archbishop Farley.

New York, July 18.—Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Farley, with fifty other prelates of note in the Catholic Church, started to-day for Rome on the steamship Albert, of the North German Lloyd line.

They will attend the golden jubilee of the Pope, and afterward will make a trip through Europe, returning to America in October. With him Archbishop Farley took the Peter's pence, which every two years is remitted to the Vatican. What the amount of this offering is the Archbishop could not say, except that it was larger than ever before.

When the princes of the church sailed hundreds of priests and their parishioners crowded the pier and ship's decks. Many of them had never seen Cardinal Gibbons before, and there was a crush to kiss the episcopal ring on the finger of the only American cardinal.

Gives His Views.

Baltimore, Md., July 18.-While traveling from Baltimore to New York to-day, Cardinal Gibbons talked of political and moral conditions of the United States, and gave his remedy for the situation. Among other things, he said:

"I am much concerned over the present political conditions in this country. There seems such a gradual trend toward unrighteousness in the great mass of our people in some respects that thinking men must realize that the problem must be met without delay.

"There are no politics without morality. There is no morality without religion, and without religion there is no

"Are the American people worse morally than the European folk?" the cardinal was asked. "No, no, no! While in Europe God is sometimes not recognized, here in America we have Thanksgiving Day, all of our great public functions are opened with prayer, and in every great national document the help of God is invoked and recognized. There are many ways in which the country is still far from being bad. It is to be good, however, that we would have it."

of the Early Spring Phenoms Are Turned Back to the Minors.

"Where have the phenomena flown to?" isks Tim Murnane. During March and early April the two big leagues were crowded full of wonderful young ball players. The reliable old players were fast men," was the cry of the fan. Time has shown the veteran to be the most valuable asset a ball club can control. Speed doesn't amount to much unless the player has all of the other essentials that go to make up the winning combination. Looking over the two major leagues. one is actually surprised at the failure of the young recruits to make good. About
